CHAPTER III.

"YOU would better spread a little more canvas, Mr. Seymour. I think we shall do better under the topgallant sails. We have no time to lose."

"Aye, aye, sir," replied the young executive officer, and then, lifting the trumpet to his lips, he called out with a powerful voice: "Lay aloft and loose the topgallant sails! Man the topgallant sheets and halyards!"

The crew, both watches being on deck, were busy with the various duties rendered necessary by the departure of a ship upon a long cruise, and were occupied here and there with the different details of work to be done when a ship gets under way. Some of them, their tasks accomplished for the moment, were standing on the fore-castle or peering through the gun ports, gazing at the city, with the tall spire of Christ church and the more substantial elevation of the building even then beginning to be known as Independence hall rising in the background beyond the shipping and over the other buildings which they were so rapidly leaving. In an instant the quiet deck became a scene of quick activity, as the men left their tasks and sprang to their appointed stations. The long coils of rope were thrown upon the deck and seized by the groups of seamen detailed for the purpose, while the rigging shook under the quick steps of the alert topten springing up the ratlines, swarming over the tops and laying out on the yards, without a thought of the giddy elevation in their intense rivalry each to be first.

"The main royal also, Mr. Seymour," continued the captain. "I think she will bear it. 'Tis a new and good stick."

"Aye, aye, sir. Main topgallant yard there."

"Sir?"

"Aloft, one of you, and loose the royal as well."

"Aye, aye, sir."

"After a few moments of quick work the officers of the various masts indicated their readiness for the next order by saying in rapid succession:—

"All ready the fore, sir."

"All ready the main, sir."

"All ready the mizen, sir."

"Handsomely, now, and all together. I want those Frenchmen there to see how smartly we can do this," said the captain in reply, addressing Seymour in a tone perfectly audible over the ship.

"Let fall! Lay in! Sheet home! Hoist away! Tend the braces there!" shouted the first lieutenant.

Amid the creaking of blocks, the straining of cordage and the lusty heaving of the men, with the shrill pipes of the boatswain and his mates for an accompaniment, the sheets were hauled home on the yards, the yards rose on their respective masts, and the light spars, the braces being hauled taut, belled out in the strong breeze, adding materially to the speed of the ship.

"Lay down from aloft!" cried the lieutenant when all was over.

"Aye, that will do," remarked the captain. "We go better already. I am most anxious to get clear of the capes before nightfall. Call the men aft and request the officers to come up to the quarter deck. I wish to speak to them."

"Aye, aye, sir. Mr. Wilton," said the young officer, turning to a young midshipman standing on the lee side of the deck, "step below and ask the officers there and those forward to come on deck. Bentley," he called to the boatswain, "call all hands aft."

"Aye, aye, sir."

Again the shrill whistling of the pipes was heard, followed by the deep tones of Bentley, which rolled and tumbled along the decks of the ship in the usual long drawn, monotonous cry which could be heard above the roar of the wind or the rush of the water or the straining of the timbers, from the truck to the keelson, "All hands lay aft, to the quarter deck."

The captain, standing upon the poop deck, was not at first glance a particularly imposing figure. He was small in stature, scarcely five and a half feet high at best, with his natural height diminished, as is often the case with sailors, by a slight bending of the back and stooping of the shoulders; yet he possessed a well knit, vigorous and not ungraceful figure, whose careless poise and the ease with which he maintained his position, with his hands clasped behind his back, in spite of the rather heavy roll and pitch of the ship in the very strong breeze, indicated long familiarity with the sea.

The officers, gathered in a little knot on the lee side of the quarter deck, several midshipmen among them, were worthy of the crew and the command.

"Men," said the captain, in a clear, firm voice, removing his cocked hat

"We are bound for English waters."

from his thick black hair, tied in a queue and entirely devoid of powder, as he looked down at them from the break of the poop with his piercing black eyes, "we are bound for English waters."

"Hurrah! Hurrah!" cried many voices from the crew impetuously.

"We will show the new flag for the first time on the high seas," he continued, visibly pleased, and pointing proudly to the stars and stripes, which his own hand had first hoisted, fluttering gayly out at the peak, "and I trust we may strike a blow or two which will cause it, and us, to be long remembered. While you are under my orders I shall expect from you prompt, unquestioned compliance with my commands, or those of my officers, and a ready submission to the hard discipline of a ship of war, to which most of you, I suspect, are unfamiliar, unless you have learned it in that bitter school, a British ship. You will learn, however, while principles of equality are very well in civil life they have no place in the naval service. Subordination is the word here; this is not a trading vessel, but a ship of war, and I intend to be implicitly obeyed," he continued sternly, looking even more fiercely at them. "Nevertheless," he added, somewhat relaxing his set features, "although we are not a peaceful merchantman, yet I expect and intend to do a little trading with the ships of the enemy, and in any prizes which we may capture you know you will all have a just, nay, a liberal, share. It must not be lost sight of, however, that the first business of this ship, as of every other ship of war of our country, is to fight the ships of the enemy of equal, or of not too great, force. Should we find such a one, as is most likely, in the English channel, we must remember that the honor and glory of our flag are above prize money."

"Three cheers for Captain John Paul Jones!" cried one of the seamen, leaping on a gun and waving his hat. They were given with a mighty rush from nearly two hundred lusty throats, the ship being heavily overmanned for future emergencies.

"That will do, men," said the captain, smiling darkly. "Remember that a willing crew makes a happy cruise. Mr. Seymour, have the boatswain pipe all hands to grog, then set your watches. Mr. Talbot," he added, turning to the young officer in the familiar buff and blue of the Continental army, who stood by his side, an interested spectator to all that had occurred, "will you do me the honor of taking a glass of wine with me in the cabin? I should be glad if you would join us also. Mr. Seymour, after the watch has been called, and you can leave the deck. Let Mr. Wallingford have the watch; he is familiar with the bay. Tell him to take in the royal and the fore and mizzen topgallant sails if it blows heavily," he continued, after a pause, and then, bowing, he left the deck.

Lost His Entire Savings.

Marion, Ind., June 16.—Joseph Davies of Liberty Center came to Marion to visit his sister, Mrs. George King, who, with her husband, conducts a restaurant. Davies left his coat, containing $1,070, hanging in the wash-room and went into the dining-room. When he returned a few minutes later the money was gone. Davies had worked for years on the Toledo, St. Louis & Western railroad as a section hand, and had saved the money from his meager earnings. He placed it in a bank until Tuesday, when he withdrew it and started for Coffeyville, Kan., where he expected to engage in business.

Revolution Practically Certain.
Tangier, June 16.—French occupation is urged as the only remedy for the serious internal condition of Morocco. A revolution is practically certain within a couple of months and it will be supported by the entire educated class. The sultan's authority is virtually non-existent, and until the country is occupied Europeans are on the edge of a volcano. Should France avoid her responsibility, America or Great Britain may be forced into energetic action, thus creating a situation similar to that existing in Egypt.

BETWEEN FIRE AND WATER

Sunday School Excursionists at New York Meet Dreadful Death.

SIX HUNDRED PERISH

Excursion Steamer General Slocum Burns to Water's Edge.

Most of the Victims Were Women and Children Who Were Powerless to Help Themselves.

A Day of Merry-Making For Big German Church Parish Turned to One of Mourning.

Fire From a Trivial Cause Soon Swept Big Steamer From Stem to Stern.

New York, June 16.—One of the most appalling disasters in the history of New York, tragic in its immensity, dramatic in its episodes, and deeply pathetic in the tender age of most of its victims, took place in the East river at the entrance to Long Island sound, within a short distance of the New York shore and within sight of thousands of persons, the majority of whom were powerless to minimize the extent of the catastrophe.

By the burning to the water's edge of the General Slocum, a three-decked excursion steamer, the largest in these waters, more than 600 persons, the majority of whom were women and children, were burned to death or drowned by jumping overboard or by being thrown into the whirlpools by the lurching of the vessel and the frantic rush of the panic-stricken passengers.

Approximately 500 bodies have been recovered and are now being tagged at the morgues of Bellevue hospital and Harlem. Divers are still busy taking bodies from the hold of the vessel, which they say is choked with the remains of human beings, while bodies of scores who leaped or were thrown into the river have not been recovered.

Captain Van Schaik and his two pilots, Edward Van Wart and E. N. Weaver, have been arrested.

A SICKENING STORY

Details of One of the Worst Disasters on Record.

New York, June 16.—The three-decked excursion steamer General Slocum of the Knickerbocker Steamship company, burned to the water's edge off North Brother Island, East river, at the entrance to Long Island sound, resulting in the death through burning or drowning of at least 600 persons, mostly women and children. Four hundred and ninety-six bodies have been recovered and divers are at work taking bodies from the hold of the steamer. The remains of many persons who leaped into the river have not yet been found, and it will be many hours before the list of dead is anywhere near complete.

The General Slocum, one of the largest excursion steamers in these waters, left Third street, East river, having on board the annual Sunday School excursion of St. Marks German Lutheran church, located in Sixth street. Her destination was Locust Grove, one of the many resorts on Long Island sound. The excursion was in charge of the Rev. George C. Haas, pastor of the church.

The vessel was commanded by Captain William Van Schaik, one of the best known boat captains in New York harbor. He has commanded the General Slocum for almost the entire time since she was built, in 1891. The number of excursionists on board is variously estimated at from 1,500 to 2,000, but according to an official statement issued by the Knickerbocker Steamship company, owners of the Slocum, the number of passengers was 873, that being one-third of the vessel's licensed capacity.

The steamer, after leaving her dock, proceeded up East river, all three of her decks being crowded with merry-makers. Bands played and the great side-wheeler was decorated with flags from stem to stern.

The Slocum had reached a point near the Sunken Meadows, off 135th street, Manhattan, which is at the extreme Eastern end of Randall's Island, when fire broke out in a luncheon room on the forward deck. The blaze was caused by the overturning of a pot of grease. The headway of the vessel and a high wind almost instantly fanned the insignificant flame into fury. Efforts were at once directed to subduing the fire, but they were futile. The blaze spread aft with almost lightning rapidity. Captain Van Schaik, in the pilot-house, had been informed of the outbreak of the fire and, realizing the danger to the excursionists, decided to send his vessel ashore at 124th street. At this point there is a number of lumber yards and several huge oil tanks, and the captain was warned that to attempt to land at this point would endanger the property and perhaps further imperil the lives of scores of people, who had already been frightened into a state of almost uncontrollable excitement.

Changing the steamer's course slightly, he headed her for North Brother Island, half a mile away. By this time the flames were rushing by leaps and bounds from the forward part of the ship aft. The great open decks, built for excursionists, with little obstruction from bow to stern, offered a clear sweep for the fire.

As the Slocum dashed forward the flames caught stanchion and cabin woodwork, eating and tearing its way across the vessel. The excursionists, but a few moments before in the full enjoyment of an ideal summer's day on Long Island sound, were driven to the after part of the steamer to escape the heat, flames and smoke that were constantly increasing. Policemen and deckhands aboard the boat struggled hard to quiet the panic, but their efforts were in vain. The wild disorder increased as frantic mothers sought their children who had been at play about the decks.

The steamer's whistle was blowing for assistance and tugs and other nearby craft answered to the call. Before any of the boats could reach the burning steamer, however, the frantic women and children began to jump overboard. The current was strong there are many whirlpools in the channel. The boats that always abound in that vicinity picked up many persons from the water, but these were only a small number of those that were seen struggling in the swift current. As the fire increased the struggle to gain a point of vantage at the stern became frightful. Women and children crowded against the after rail until it gave way and hundreds were pushed off into the river. After this there was a steady stream of persons who jumped or were thrown into the water. In the wake of the Slocum was a line of little black spots, marking the heads and bodies of those who had sought to escape the roaring furnace on the ship by throwing themselves overboard. Through all the wild panic, during all that inferno, with fire and smoke surrounding them, the officers and men of the doomed boat remained at their posts, but they were powerless to avert the catastrophe.

The Slocum got within fifty feet of the northwest point of North Brother Island and then stopped in the shallow water, while it burned to the water's edge.

St. Marks Lutheran church contained in its membership practically all those Germans of the Protestant faith within a radius of ten square blocks. The excursion was the event of the year for scores of well-to-do German families and had been looked forward to for many months. Family parties of ten or more had been made up, including in many cases the old grandmother, the mother, and the children of all ages, with a sprinkling of those men of the families who could spare a day from their work.

A bureau of information was opened in the church shortly after the first news of the catastrophe was received, and ever since there has been a constant stream of agonized men, women and children climbing the steps to ask for news of their relations or friends.

As soon as news is received as to survivors or victims it is posted outside, and the information soon spreads throughout the neighborhood.

LOST A THOUSAND

Russians Meet a Serious Reverse North of Port Arthur.

RETREAT IN DISORDER

Great Japanese Victory Is Reported From Fuchou Where Seven Thousand Russians Fled.

They Left a Thousand Dead and Abandoned Their Guns to the Victorious Enemy.

Tokio, June 16.—News has been received here, but has not yet been officially published, of a great Japanese victory near Fuchou on the railway, seventy miles north of Port Arthur.

The Russians, it is said, were overwhelmed, lost a thousand men, left all their guns on the field and retreated in disorder. The Russians to the number of 7,000 men are now in full flight toward Tshi Chiao and Kai Cow.

Battle of Vafangow.

Liao Yang, June 16.—The fighting at Vafangow (about fifty-five miles north of Port Arthur) was renewed yesterday and is still proceeding. No details are obtainable, but there are persistent rumors that the Russians were partly successful, destroying three squadrons of cavalry and making prisoners of sixty men. The Russian casualties in the fighting Tuesday were 305 men killed or wounded. The Japanese casualties are not known.

ANXIOUS RUSSIANS

News Supply Seems Wholly Lacking at St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, June 16.—No word, official or otherwise, has been received from the far East whence everyone is eagerly expecting news of serious fighting on land or sea. The knowledge that Vice Admiral Skrydloff's cruisers had slipped their moorings and gone southward, the reports from abroad of transports fired on by Russian vessels in the Korean straits, and the news of heavy fighting near Vafangow, north of Port Arthur, all combined to arouse the expectation of the public to a high pitch. But if all the wires were cut east of Baikal there could not be a more complete lack of news.

Vladivostok Squadron Active.

Tokio, June 16.—One Vladivostok squadron evidently attacked the Japanese transports Hitachi and Sado off Iki Island. The details of the attack have not been received here.

"MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME"

How a Song Won the Hearts of Confederate Veterans.

Nashville, Tenn., June 16.—A sweet-voiced young woman of Norfolk, Va., Miss Mary K. Ewell, maid of honor for the South, by her singing of "My Old Kentucky Home," won for Louisville the reunion next year of the United Confederate Veterans. It was after the old veterans had chosen Lieutenant General Stephen D. Lee as their commander-in-chief and had listened to a stirring speech by Colonel Bennett H. Young of Louisville, extolling the beauties, capabilities and hospitality of his home city, that Miss Ewell was escorted to the front of the stage. Her voice thrilled the great crowd that filled the tabernacle, and the last note of the song had barely left her lips when the convention went wild with shouts of "Louisville!" "Louisville!" Seconding speeches were unnecessary. The choice of the veterans was unanimous. The date will be determined later.

Considerate.

"Ma," said Bobby in a slightly injured tone of voice, "there were lots of things you let me do before the baby came that you don't let me do now."

"Do you think so, Bobby?" "Still," he went on with more philosophy, "I can't expect you to be so good a mother with two children as you were when you only had one."

Worth the Money.

"Tommy," said the economical mother to the boy with the loose tooth, "I'll give you 10 cents if you'll let me pull that tooth." The boy thought it over and then went to his bank. "The fun of doin' that is worth more'n 10 cents," he said. "I'll give you 15 if you'll let me pull one of yours."—Chicago Post.

Senatorial Beliskness.

"Why can't this bill be rushed through the senate?"

"It can," my boy; it can. I'll see that it's presented this session, brought up next session, argued the third session and possibly passed the fourth session."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ACCIDENTAL?

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death on the man who fell from the window ledge on which he had fallen asleep. But the death was really due to carelessness which made the accident possible.

There are a great many lives suddenly terminated as a result of carelessness, although the medical certificate may read "heart failure."

When a man takes chances with his stomach and neglects the warning symptoms of disease, he is carelessly inviting calamity.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food, which makes strength. It stimulates the liver, cures biliousness, and removes bilious impurities from the blood.

"I had been troubled with a pain in lower part of my stomach for three years, so severe I thought it would kill me in time," writes Mr. Aaron Van Dam, of (Kensington) 556 19th St., Chicago, Ill. "I could hardly work; it felt like a big weight hanging on me and got so bad that I had to take medicine. I used Stomach Bitters for a time, but it did no good so I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce for advice, which he gave me immediately. I followed his directions and used two bottles of his medicine and was cured. I had a torpid liver which was troubling me instead of cramps (as I thought), so Dr. Pierce told me. I have pleasure in living now; have gained in weight 15 pounds since then."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They do not beget the pill habit.

"I CARE nothing about your theories," says an Englishman in this country. Show me the condition of the people. This man was born in the free trade church. He had been confirmed and had become a communicant. Free trade was the creed that he was brought up in. But he was inclined to do some thinking for himself, and he was wise enough to study conditions rather than theories, and when he saw the condition of the American people under protection he became a thoroughgoing protectionist.

ONE THOUSAND VICTIMS.
Remarkable Loss of Life in Steamboat Disaster.
NEW YORK, June 16.—Up to 9:30 o'clock this morning 500 bodies of the disaster on the steamboat Gen. Slocum had been discovered.
Health Commissioner Darlington says the victims will number at least 1000 and will probably exceed that figure.
It is known that nearly 1500 persons boarded the Slocum when she left her pier at the foot of East Third-st yesterday morning. Less than 500 have been accounted for at the hospital and at home. The others are dead.
Of the bodies recovered, only a few over 100 have been identified.
The serious cause is made by survivors that the steamboat was supplied with rotten life-preservers. The authorities are investigating these charges.
A GREAT many college graduates will be turned loose on the country during this month. And the country will be all the better off for there is a demand for educated men in all lines of work. An investment in an education of the right kind always brings good returns.

INDIANA will hold a conspicuous place at the republican national convention at Chicago next week. Senator Fairbanks will probably be nominated for vice president and Senator Fairbanks will make one of the speeches nominating President Roosevelt. Harry S. New, national committeeman, will have much to do with the management of the convention and other Indiana people will bear conspicuous parts.
The Nebraska prophet regards Mr. Cleveland's article on the bond sales during his administration as unnecessary and uncalled for. We suspect that this is the correct view of it. Anyhow, if he wanted to give in a few words the actual cause that led to this transaction he might have condensed considerably and still include the whole truth. For instance, he might have said "the Cleveland administration," and here you have the whole thing accounted for.

Severe Winters.
It is an old saying that severe winters are always followed by good crop years. If this rule holds good this country, especially Indiana, ought to have splendid crop this year. Hardly any other one thing could happen which would add more materially to the prosperity of the country.

TAX LAW IS NOT RESPONSIBLE
For the Rapid Scaling Down of the State's Obligations by Republican Financial Officers—Cause is Found in Economical and Conservative Administration of the State's Business Affairs.
At the recent Democratic state convention Republican leadership was denounced for claiming credit on account of the reduction of the state debt, and the presiding officer declared that this "reduction has been effected as the result of a tax law enacted by a Democratic state legislature." An examination of the record reveals the utter indefensibility of this position. Democratic officers had charge of the fiscal affairs of the state for two years after the state began to derive the increased revenues resulting from the new tax law, and were unable, if they were willing, to begin to wipe out that monument to their own methods of financing the state debt.
When the Republican financial officers went out of office in January, 1891, they left the debt at $8,056,615.12. At the end of that fiscal year the Democrats had increased it to $8,346,615.12. At the close of the next fiscal year it was the same, the increase being due to money borrowed for current expenses, notwithstanding the new tax law added to the revenues of the state $1,419,778 in 1891 and $1,461,197 in 1892. Thus in two years they had an increase of revenue of $2,880,975 and no reduction of debt until 1893, at the end of which fiscal year the debt was $8,006,615.12, a reduction of only $340,000 from what it was the year before and the year preceding that.
From the debt of 1890 there was a reduction of only $50,000. Democratic state officials paid just $50,000 more than the sum by which they had increased the debt, when the state revenues were millions more than they were under their predecessors.
When the fiscal year of 1894 was closed Democratic state officials had paid on the debt $570,000 additional, or since taking charge in 1891, in all, $910,000. That put the debt at $7,436,615.12. That amount was $620,000 less than the debt the Republicans left and $910,000 less than the debt was after the Democrats had increased it. They paid $400,000 more in January, 1895.
The total of $1,300,000 reduction of state debt by Democrats will bear the following analysis:
In 1893 there was paid $80,000 on the original debt and $260,000 borrowed by Democrats. Total, $340,000.
In 1894 there was paid $570,000.
In January, 1895, there was paid $400,000.
In these years of Democratic financing, with the two preceding, 1891 and 1892, when the Democrats increased the debt, the revenues of the state were, on account of the new tax law, $4,486,928 more than they had ever been. In addition to this they had the use of $578,224 sinking fund, created for the sole purpose of paying the debt. In all they had at command $5,065,152 in excess of revenues and sinking fund with which to reduce the debt. But out of this vast sum they used for that purpose only $580,000, the greater part of $1,300,000 state debt reduction by them being made with money paid the state by the general government for equipping troops during the civil war.
Alongside this record place that of the era of Republican management which has succeeded. Here are some of the results:
The state debt reduced $5,368,000, an average debt paying of considerably more than a half million dollars a year.
An annual saving of interest payments to the people of Indiana amounting to more than $150,000 a year.
Two million dollars spent in enlargement and improvement of state institutions.
A saving of millions of dollars to the people through county and state fee and salary laws.
A substantial reduction of the tax levy.
How has this result been brought about? Not by hap-hazard. Even an increase in the income of an individual or a state does not necessarily mean a decrease in the debts of an individual or a state. Money is saved at the place where it goes out, not at the place where it comes in. In Indiana the saving has been effected by the establishment and maintenance of strict business methods in state institutions, including a merit system of appointments; competitive bids in the purchase of all supplies; a system of accounting which renders dishonest administration impossible; and strict methods of supervision.
A vote for Republican state and legislative candidates is a vote against the state debt. Continuance for another term of Republican administration in Indiana will result in its total extinction.

POLITICAL CANARD
Not True That Indiana Relies on Alabama to Present Fairbanks.
Indianapolis, June 16.—One of the wildest political canards started here apropos of the plans of Senator Fairbanks' friends during the national convention next week is that they have planned that Alabama shall present his name for vice president and that it shall be promptly seconded by Connecticut. The purpose, according to the story, is to stampede the convention so as to completely overshadow any efforts that may be made for Congressman R. R. Hitt of Illinois, and three or four other gentlemen whose states have endorsed them. It is true that Senator Fairbanks' friends have stated that Indiana will not present his name, yet they have not reached the point where they are asking any state to present him. Senator Fairbanks has announced repeatedly that he is in no sense a candidate and he will not permit his friends to ask any state to present him. If it is presented it will be the result of a spontaneous and unanimous demand for him.

TESTIMONIAL.
MESSRS. WATSON & CO., Indianapolis, Ind., Agents. March 1, 1904.
Dear Sirs:—Replying to your query as to whether I am pleased with the F. P. lighting system which you installed for me fifteen months ago, I will say that it has never given me one minute's trouble nor one dollar's expense. It gives the best light I ever saw for interior use. The actinic rays are of such a character as to make it very desirable when the perfectly natural colors of objects are to be distinguished without confusion.
As to cost of maintenance, I think my experience, based upon close observation, will warrant the statement that it is under $80 per annum, and our store is open every day in the year until 11 o'clock p. m., except on Sunday, one hour less. Under the same condition, and with the most approved facilities for the distribution of light, our bills for illuminating gas were about $200 per year, and for electric light (arcs) about $400 to $420 per annum, and at no time have we had more than one-half the light we now have.
I am particularly pleased with the light, and the fact that it is so economical makes it the more desirable.
As you can readily figure, I paid for my apparatus and cost of light in about four or five months. Yours truly,
R. I. EADS.

Indiana will receive $31,862.73 as its share of $1,000,000 appropriated by congress for the maintenance of the national guard of the United States. This money is now being apportioned among the several states by the secretary of war. The list will not be given out for publication until the beginning of the fiscal year, July 1, but Indiana will receive the amount stated.

Says Vote Was Kept Down.

A bitterly fought contest for a saloon license, begun in Scottsburg a year and a half ago, is now up to the appellate court on appeal from the Scott circuit court.

Jacob J. Renn filed an application for the license and was granted it in spite of the fact that more than half the voters of the township had signed remonstrances. The case was carried to the circuit court, where the county commissioners were upheld.

Renn made the novel claim, in which he was supported by the commissioners and the lower court, that a sufficient number of names had not been attached to the remonstrances, because, by collusion among themselves, a number of voters had arranged not to vote for secretary of state at the preceding state election. This, Renn claimed, made the number of legal voters in the township appear much less than it really was, and so made it easier for the remonstrators to secure a majority.

President Stott Resigns.

Dr. W. T. Stott, who has been president of Franklin college for a third of a century, tendered his resignation to the board of trustees of the college Wednesday morning, the resignation to take effect a year hence. Dr. Stott is one of the strongest educators of the state and is held in high esteem by all who know him. The growth and present high standing of Franklin college is due in large measure to him. The students, past and present, of Franklin, have the highest sort of regard for Dr. Stott. He has few equals as a teacher and his personal influence is always good. He is now and has been for five years a member of the state board of education.

Rainfall and Crops.

The rainfall for the twenty-four hours ending at 8 o'clock this morning, was three-fourths of an inch. In the early evening there was a severe electrical storm and later—about 12:05 a. m.—a considerable fall of hail.

All field and garden crops are in fine condition, oats, perhaps excepted, and the improvement within the last ten days has been wonderful. The oats straw is short, but the heads may grow to insure a good crop.

So far this season, weeds have been of slow growth and small trouble to farmers and gardeners. This rain, however, will give them a start that require tact and work to overcome.

Becomes a Hoosier.

Influenced by his son, George Vincent of Chicago, Bishop John H. Vincent, on the retired list of Methodist bishops, will take up his residence in Indianapolis in September. For the last four years Bishop Vincent and his family have been living in Zurich, Switzerland. Tuesday they went to Indianapolis and leased the property at 1118 Alabama street, owned by George B. Yandes.

Bishop Vincent and wife will spend the summer at Chautauqua.

Indiana Bananas.

H. M. Humfield, a florist in Frankfort, has succeeded in growing a banana tree that has a large bunch of fruit upon it. The tree is about ten feet high and nearly eight inches in diameter. The bunch of fruit contains thirty-five bananas, which are just beginning to ripen and, for the novelty of the thing in eating this fruit grown in Clinton county they are selling at 25 cents each.

Home Coming.

New Albany is making great preparations for the "home coming" of former residents of that city from August 8 to 18. They are preparing for a "Home Coming" observance which will be novel and appropriate. It strikes us that such a reunion would be a splendid thing for Seymour.

Hayden Gas Well.

John H. Wohrer of Hayden, was in town Monday and he spoke in glowing terms of the gas well at that place. He says the well will burn 30 feet high and can be heard for miles indicating a good pressure. Monday the derrick was moved one mile east of the well just sunk and near Six Mile bridge where work will begin on a new well. The Seymour capitalists evidently mean business.—Vernon Journal.

Take Warning.

You gentlemen who have been guilty of manipulating the festive lawn mower should take warning ere it is too late, and let your better halves do the grass cutting. A man up in Mt. Vernon, New York, dropped dead while pushing the lawn mower the other day.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Silas Hough and Nancy M. Hall, Fred S. Eastin and Elsie S. Gray, Charles W. Bard and Lida Cox, Perry Perkins and Susie Thomas.

How Much Money Have You Spent

For lenses, and how much did you get in return? We agree that you shall be satisfied, that our lenses for distant use shall be everything you desire as long as you live, and if they need changing to better your vision—or any one else can make it better,—we will do the work FREE OF CHARGE, OR PAY TO HAVE THE MAN WHO KNOWS MORE ABOUT THIS WORK THAN WE DO, DO IT FOR YOU.

Our work stands out and speaks for itself, and if your eyes need attention, come to us. We are deserving of your consideration. Successful fitting of lenses was almost unknown in Seymour eight months ago, but many have experienced the pleasure of eating the pudding since, which certainly is the best proof. Examinations free. Mr. and Mrs. Harsch, Optometrists, 74 N. Chestnut street.

Farmer Elijah Gowdy.

Elijah Gowdy, who forsook the cab of a B. & O. Southwestern engine a year ago to pass the remainder of his life on his fine farm southwest of the city, was in town Monday night and dropped around to pay a friendly visit to the Herald. Mr. Gowdy is untanned until he is brown as autumn, and is in fine health. He says that the life buccolic would be all right if it were not for the trouble to get and to keep farm hands. Farm labor is scarce and comes high these prosperous days. —Washington Herald.

out of shape—never weak nor wobbly—never creak nor squeak. Victor No. 1 are built to wear. Some springs are just built to sell.

Each cone of wire has its individual point of support on a patented cross-wire foundation. The smaller end of the spiral being rigidly connected to two cross-wires in such a manner that the coil cannot be depressed below these supports, or twisted to one side or the other.

This insures a uniform level mattress surface. Also, the separate springs cannot touch each other or the various coils of each spring rub together when compressed, there is absolute freedom from noise.

Do not buy any other springs until you see these, and do not buy these until you find that they are all we say. Guaranteed for five full years.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, sours and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp Root is realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonials received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Elmhurst, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake, remember the name, Swamp Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Triumph of Modern Surgery.

Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; pipes take the place of diseased sections of veins; antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering with injuries entail. For sale by C. W. Milhouse.
